ing land and 3154 hectares of non-coal bearing land.

(b) The non-coal bearing lands in. elude 923 hectares of agricultural land: part of which is paddy land yielding only one crop in a year.

(c) Paddy land is generally located in small enclaves, surrounded on all its sides by non-paddy lands being acquire^ for the project. Its geographical location, therefore, makes it difficult to exclude paddy land from acquisition. Besides, non-coal bearing agricultural land, including paddy land, is required for activities like workshop, stores, Washeries, CHP, explosive dumps, magazine, railway line etc.
